NATIVE RESOURCE HANDBOOK

NORTHERN REGION

Written by the Anchorage Native
Recruitment and Retention
Committee in collaboration with the Office of Children's Services and the Alaska Center for Resource Families

INTRODUCTION

The Native Resource Handbook for the Northern Region will help you in your quest to keep all Native children connected to their culture and heritage. The following pages will also give you information on the Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA), definitions, cultural activities, books, educational opportunities and resources. This book is for you to keep as a tool to help you keep all Native children connected to their culture and to share resources available for Native people in the Northern area. We hope that this booklet will help you

WHAT IS THE INDIAN CHILD WELFARE ACT?

25 U.S.C. d1901 et. Seq.

The Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA) is a federal law passed in 1978 recognizing that there is a “government to government relationship” between the United States and Tribes. This law affirms that a special political relationship exists between Native tribes and the United States government and is not based on race or ethnic factors.

This law was made in response to the overwhelming proof that Indian children were taken into state custody at an alarming rate versus other cultures. In some areas in the nation 25-35% (as high as 50-75%) of Indian children were removed from their homes. This law was made in the best interest of Indian children. The law defines placement preferences for Native children who are placed for adoption or foster care with non-native families.

PURPOSE OF ICWA:

- ICWA regulates States regarding the handling of child abuse and neglect, and adoption cases involving Native children – State courts, State child protection agencies, and adoption agencies.
- ICWA sets minimum standards for the handling of these cases and allows tribes to intervene in child in need of aid (CINA) cases and participate in court hearings.
- ICWA authorizes Tribal Courts to adjudicate child abuse and neglect, and adoption cases involving Tribal members.
- ICWA creates placement preferences for native children.

In layman’s terms, ICWA stated that all Indian children who fall under the ICWA law must be handled with a higher standard of care for placement and adoptions. The State is required to search for placements within the recognized extended family or culture first, before placing with non-Native families. Once Indian children are placed in a home, the State is then required to meet minimal standards in cultural continuity by exposing the minor to cultural events, history, heritage, education, and common cultural practices.

THC -- Marijuana is a common name for a drug made from dried leaves and flowering tops of the Indian hemp plant. People smoke it.

TPR -- Termination of Parental Rights results in the complete legal severance of the parent-child relationship unless a right of visitation is retained through relinquishment.

LD ----Learning Disabilities are hidden disabilities that affect many individuals who usually have average or above average intelligence, but are unable to achieve at their potential.

MYC--McLaughlin Youth Center is a place that offers specialized programs for sex offenders, girls, older teens, those who have participated in gangs, and youth posing significant risk to themselves and others.

OCS---Office of Children's Services works in partnership with families and communities to support the well-being of Alaska's children. Their services attempt to enhance a family's capacity to give their children a healthy start, to provide them with safe, permanent homes, and to maintain cultural connections so that all may realize their potential.

OPA --Office of Public Advocacy provides legal defense services to indigent persons.

PC ----Probable Cause is a reasonable belief that a person has committed a crime. The test the court of appeals employs to determine whether probable cause existed for purpose of arrest is whether facts and circumstances within the officer's knowledge are sufficient to warrant a prudent person to believe a suspect has committed, is committing, or is about to commit a crime.

PD ----Public Defender a lawyer who works for a state or local agency representing clients accused of a crime who cannot afford to pay.

PIC ---Programs for Infants and Children provides evaluation and intervention services for children, birth to age three, with special needs and their families.

PO ----Probation Officer provides protection and services through the enforcement of court orders and the investigations, supervision and monitoring of offenders. Probation officers provide up-to-date information and recommendation to the courts.

CERTIFICATE OF INDIAN BLOOD

The Certificate of Indian Blood (CIB) is a very important document for Native children. The certificate will allow Native children access to Native health, social and other services, which are usually at no cost. All Native children should obtain the certificate.

Instructions on How to Obtain a Certificate of Indian Blood for an Adopted Alaska Native Child:

An application for a Certificate of Indian Blood can be obtained from:

The United States Department of the Interior Bureau of Indian Affairs
Fairbanks Field Office
101 12th Ave., Unit 16
Fairbanks, Alaska 99701
Or can be mailed by phoning (907)456-0222

- If the child has not received a CIB before adoption, an original certified birth certificate is required. The enrollment office has to have the names and dates of birth of the biological parents and possibly grandparents.
- Your OCS social worker or tribal worker may have access to original birth certificates.
- An adoption decree and a certified birth certificate with the child's new name and family information are also needed.
- This information can be taken to the enrollment office and presented to the enrollment clerk. The CIB will be issued right away and your original documents returned to you.

ACTIVITIES

Cultural activities are very important to Native children. These activities help them to stay connected to their culture. Foster and adoptive families can participate in dance groups, activities and crafts. As a caregiver to Native children, you are encouraged to participate in activities with foster children.
